

Kaleidoscope Graphs in R

Mario A Morales^{1,2*}

1. Hunter College of City University of New York
2. Polytechnic Institute of New York University
- * Contact author: mario.morales.44@gmail.com

Keywords: Data Visualization

The primary aim of this talk is to present an innovative technique for building and analyzing kaleidoscope images that explain patterns and relationships in time series, cross section and longitudinal problems. These graphs are programmed in R and one example is presented with simulated data.